WSAA PRESIDENT: Ed Forslof

The next big event for WSAA is the annual convention in October; our hosts this year are the Colyak Bowhunters in the Tri-Cities. The Annual Convention is Oct. 22, 23 & 24, the folks at Colyak are planning a host of activities from wine tasting and snacks to dessert auctions, so make your plans to attend. Each Club has representation dependent on the number of WSAA adult members, the more members the more delegates, pretty simple. The business conducted at the meeting includes reports from all Officers and Trustees, setting the Tournament and meeting calendar for the next year and electing Officers for next year. Make sure your Club has submitted a member list to Vicki Morgan for an accurate delegate count.

All Clubs and Shops should have received their Convention packets, and if you intend to have a club level or other shoot other than a WSAA Championship, you should have already filled out the appropriate forms and mailed back to WSAA. Are you going to bid for a State Championship in 2011?? Then fill out the bid form and send it back ... our most time consuming and sometimes largest waste of the Convention Body's time, is not having a bid form for a Club or Shop that intended to do so, but let time get away. Get your important shoot dates on the Calendar ... $10.00 per shoot is pretty cheap advertising by way of the Tournament Calendar cards that are printed each year for each and every individual member receiving a newsletter.

One important note is that new for 2011 is that in lieu of the historic FITA, WSAA has adopted a FITA Field Championship into our mix of seven Championships. The FITA Field is similar to NFAA Field but using 24 targets, three arrows per target and all metric distances. The first day will be 24 targets at unmarked distances and Sunday will be 24 targets at marked metric distances. All FITA rules will apply for divisions and styles. Most importantly 60 meter max, 60 pound max, compound style combines releases and fingers, there is also a pin style.

As we approach the Annual Convention please think about the offices of the Board of Directors and how you may be able to help. All positions are open including the District Trustees and need volunteers to run on the ballot. Are you or a friend interested in nominating a person for a position then get on the ball and make it happen.

Last note regarding the Convention ... if you, your club or shop have almost anything that you would like to donate to Colyak Bowhunters for an auction item please contact Karen Palmer and give her a heads up about what you would like to give.

During the September early archery elk season, a Washington bowhunter was killed by careless handling of an arrow and broadhead, please keep your arrows with broadheads in the quiver until you are ready to shoot

GOTTA GO.....REMEMBER DO MORE THAN JUST GETTING INVOLVED, HELP MAKE A DIFFERENCE!!!! IT IS YOUR SPORT AND CLUB.

USA Strikes Gold at World Field Championships

Visegrad, Hungary – Veteran archers and newcomers alike represented the United States at the World Archery Field Championships in Visegrad, Hungary this week, and neither group disappointed. All members of Team USA held their own in qualification rounds, and the compound shooters earned a total of four medals, in the senior and junior classes.

Following an opening ceremony held at Visegrad Castle, not far from Budapest, archers took to the field for the first of two qualification rounds, consisting of 24 targets set along a roving course at unmarked distances. The ranking round continued to the second day, during which archers shot another 24 targets set at marked distances. Following the qualification rounds, US Olympic Team member Vic Wunderle was ranked first with a strong 742, followed by teammate Timm Hines qualifying 22nd with 624. For the recurve women, Nancey Tsai qualified 19th with her score of 501, while Brandi Mantha ranked 20th with a 498.

The compound archers also fared well in the qualification rounds, with Dave Cousins ranked first with 838, followed closely by Kevin Wilkey in 3rd with an 809, and Rod Menzer in 5th with 805. The compound women's group was led by Lora Gravlin, who qualified 23rd with her score of 701; Amanda Sisson ranked 24th with her 694, and Crystal Parker rounded out the US compound women, qualifying 25th with a 692.

This tournament also had a strong showing from barebow shooters, and the US group held their own, with field veteran Skip Trafford qualifying 26th with a 558; newcomer Avram Grannett followed in 30th with a 442, as well as Daryl Harris, who qualified 31st with 434. Three women also represented the US in barebow, with Becky Nelson-Harris qualifying a strong 6th with 580; Julie Robinson followed in 14th with 529, and Lori Prichard-Beller finished 16th with 524. Also noteworthy was the performance by Junior Barebow archer Hardy Trafford, the youngest archer in the Championship at ten years old, who qualified tenth in the junior division.

The Trafford family was also well-represented in the recurve junior women's division by sisters Heather, Rachael and Miriam, who ranked 4th, 6th and 7th, respectively. For the compound junior men, Sean Elza shot an outstanding score of 792, which propelled

Subway Washington Games – Archery

The 2010 Subway Washington Games – Archery Event took place on Saturday, July 17 at Skookum Archers in Puyallup. This was the third year we've used the American 900 Round format and held the event at Skookum. Each year attendance and participation has grown and we are proud to say that we were basically 'sold out' this year with 79 registered archers. We had 2 spaces available on the youth targets, due to cancellations, however all other target assignments were full. We had 50 archers preregistered – which was a great help! Thank you to Tim Davis for reiterating / re-emphasizing the benefits of pre-registering for events at each of WSAA's tournaments this past year. As an organizer, I wouldn't enjoy turning someone away who shows up to shoot and there's no space available – we came really close this year. PLEASE TAKE THE TIME TO PRE-REGISTER FOR TOURNAMENTS (Washington Games, WSAA / NFAA / IBO events, club shoots, etc.) – IT'S FOR YOUR BENEFIT.

Participants ranged in age from age 8 to 83, with Hugh Lewis celebrating his 84th birthday at the Senior Games the following day. We had a family of archers join us this year all the way from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho! They left the very warm Idaho weather to come over the pass to shoot in our semi-sunny Washington Coast climate. They did wear sweatshirts & fleece – while most of us were in t-shirts! We hope they'll join us again next year!

Special thanks to:

- Skookum Archers for being our host venue. As always, the range looked great! The club ran their bbq concession, and it was a big hit with the shooters & spectators. Don and I sincerely appreciate the Club's efforts on behalf of the Games.
- THE PARTICIPANTS!! Your continued support and enthusiasm makes for a fun day.
- THE VOLUNTEERS!! These things don't run by themselves – no matter what people say! Thank you!
- Washington Games and our sponsors, for providing t-shirts, medals, Coca Cola products (water), and help during the day!

Thank you to the following people/companies for their generous donation of door prizes:

him to a first-place ranking; Adam Gallant qualified a strong 3rd with his 777, and Levi Cyr finished just behind, ranking 4th with his score of 776. In the compound junior women's group, Hunter Jackson shot well enough to qualify 4th with 708; Kayleigh Rogers stayed close behind and was ranked 6th with 632.

Individual and team eliminations followed; teams consisted of the top-qualifying archer from each equipment style of the same gender. The senior men's team consisting of Skip Trafford, Vic Wunderle and Dave Cousins was seeded 4th, participating in the team eliminations but ultimately lost in the quarterfinals. Individual eliminations, however, proved successful for several members of Team USA.

All three of the US compound men shot well enough to advance to the finals, where Cousins and Wilkey shot for the gold medal, while Menzer faced Jeremy Thierry of France for the bronze. Menzer was defeated in a close match, 63-61, while Cousins took the gold in his match against Wilkey, 65-61, giving Wilkey the silver. Recurve junior shooter Heather Trafford, who qualified 4th, advanced to the bronze medal match, where she was defeated, 43-38, ranking 4th overall for the championship.

The junior compound shooters fared especially well, with Sean Elza advancing to the gold medal match, where he outscored Oswald of Germany in a very close match to win the event, 61-60. Adam Gallant also moved on to the finals, where he was retired by Bridgman of Great Britain, who won the bronze medal match, 63-60. On the women's side, Hunter Jackson was also successful in propelling herself to the finals, where she took the silver medal in her match against Emeline Salmon of France.

HUNTING COMMUNITY NEWS

Text a Tip on Fish and Wildlife Violations

OLYMPIA –Reporting poaching and other fish and wildlife violations to the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) just got easier.

WDFW has added a new text-messaging option for reporting activity that threatens fish, wildlife and critical habitat. Tip411 allows users to send a text message to WDFW's communications dispatch center.

"We have a limited number of fish and wildlife officers in the field, so the public plays a critical role in protecting our natural resources by reporting violations," said Chief Bruce Bjork, who heads WDFW's enforcement program. "Text messaging is a quick and easy way to report violations."

The text reporting system is powered by Minnesota-based Citizen Observer, a private vendor under contract with WDFW. The system removes the texter's name and replaces it with an alias before the message arrives at WDFW's communications center, said WDFW Deputy Chief Mike Cenci. When necessary, the system allows the reporting party and the on-duty fish and wildlife officer to exchange text messages in real time, Cenci said.

WDFW enforcement officials ask anyone who witnesses a potential violation to collect as much information as possible without confronting the individual under suspicion. Bjork said helpful information includes license plate numbers, vehicle color and make, the type of violation, the time it occurred and a description of the individual or individuals involved.

Tips should be sent to 847411 (Tip411). The message must begin with the letters WDFWTIP followed by a space, and then a brief description of the violation and location.

Go to <http://wdfw.wa.gov/poaching/> for more information about how to report emergency and non-emergency fish and wildlife violations. The site includes instructions for texting, phone numbers and direct links to the email and online reporting options. The site also contains a link to Crime Observation Reporting Training (CORT) provided by the Eyes in the Woods association and WDFW enforcement officers.

To report Aquatic Invasive Species violations call toll free at 1-888-933-9247. Violations also can be reported to any WDFW regional office, or by calling the Washington State Patrol Communications Center (see local phone directories).

“The Huckleberry Bull”

By Annette Crews

Smokey and I have been hunting Oregon for over 25 years. The price of a Non-Resident hunting license and tags almost doubled this year and looking at almost $2600.00 for the two of us to hunt Oregon was a hard decision to make. We're both retired so we had to plan carefully. Over in Eastern Oregon we stayed with our friends Rob and Tina Hill. Rob had known of a place up above the Snake River where I could walk into with my torn leg muscle. I had hurt it during Turkey season and was going through therapy until it was interrupted with hunting season! Anyway, Rob met us up in the high country and we walked into this “Elk Wallow Haven” He and Smokey set up a ground blind for me to sit in that was about 17 yards from the first of nine wallows. Most of the tracks seemed to come from that area and it was the easiest to get to.

The day before opening day I packed up the little Geo Tracker and went into the high country and set up camp. Smokey was staying at the trailer and was planning to chase big Mulies out in the sagebrush in the low country.

Opening morning I walked into the timber and sat in my blind for about four hours. Three cows and two calves wondered out of the huckleberries and passed at about ten yards! I sat as still as I could but was shaking from the cold...I think!

I went out to the car about eleven AM and slept for three hours. When I woke up it was raining so I drove around and scouted the rest the day. Back at camp I put all my equipment in the tent and I slept in the car! There were wolves in the area and I slept just fine in the car.

The next morning I decided not to be on the stand at daylight because I got so cold the day before. So it wasn't a surprise that when I hiked in at ten AM there were already three other hunters in the area calling. So I sat down about eighty yards away from my blind eating huckleberries and waited until they were done and walking around. I could see they discovered my blind so I walked in and talked to them for a while. After they left I set up and at one fifteen two elk passed through. I expected a bull to be following but I was disappointed and sat for another few hours. About four PM something huge was just off to my right ...not five yards away! I slowly turned my head to see... a man and his son carrying a blind right past me! “AHAUMMM...Hello” They looked up into the trees and did an about face. “Sorry Guys”. They never saw my ground blind.

About fifteen minutes later I heard them calling from up on the hill ... I thought, how rude! But it wasn't them and within seconds a couple elk showed up and drank from the swampy water! Again I was sure a bull would follow but hours passed and just before dark another cow and calf passed through and I could hear what I guessed was the rest the herd stomping through the muddy wallows just out of sight. The sun had been down for a while and the chilly high mountain air was biting at my fingers and toes.

When I decide to leave a place I have a “five minute rule”. Stay five minutes longer than you want to... This time it paid off and just as I leaned forward to get up I saw an elk standing out in the huckleberries to my left! So I sat back and watched as it walked into view. I saw ANTLERS!!

Light was fading and the bull wasn't coming to the wallow but he stepped out and gave me a twenty-five yard shot. As I released the arrow I saw it headed for the heart! He spun to the left and I started cow calling. He made a half circle and I could see him stopped out about eighty yards then he stepped out of sight. I sat for a few minutes and I thought I could hear the whole herd run off. Turns out it was him stumbling around and falling dead! I went over and found the first blood sign and flagged it, then went out and called Smokey. He arrived up there about eleven PM.

We went in and followed a great blood trail through the berry patch to my first 6X6 bull elk!! By 2 AM we had him field dressed and skinned out. Ice was forming on the huckleberries as we left him to come back and pack out in the daylight. Getting him back to the locker he weighed in at 440 pounds hanging meat!

3D Animal Repair: Part 1

Submitted by Merlin Dahlke, KBH Archers

For the past few years, I've been rebuilding our 3D animals at KBH. It has been a learning process and I have a procedure now that is working very well. Using this method, the animals not only LOOK good, but they are restored to the point that they will stop arrows as well as a much newer target. What I will do is give a step by step method of how this is done.

The first step is to examine the animal and figure out how you intend to fix it (Fig 1). For major damage it is best to cut out the entire affected area (Fig 2). For smaller areas of damage, I use a hole saw and just cut out the area to be repaired (Fig 3). With the hole saw you cut a plug out of a undamaged piece of foam from a discarded 3D animal. For the larger area, trace the pattern of the area that has been removed and cut a plug to fill that spot. Once you have a suitable piece to fit the hole, secure it in place with gorilla glue. (Fig 4).

Now that the integrity of the target has been restored, we'll continue later with bringing back the natural appearance of the critter.

NASP STATE COORDINATOR: Dave Mack

As you read this, the early hunting season is over for most bow hunters but as I write it Washington has just experienced our second bow hunting related fatality. It appears that two hunting partners were hustling into position on some elk they had spotted. The hunter in the rear had an arrow in the ready position on his bow. The hunter in front stopped quickly, the one in the rear did not. His arrow pierced the torso of his partner. They were not able to get him help quickly enough. Our sympathies go out to all involved. This was a freak and tragic accident. Anytime a razor sharp broadhead is outside of the quiver it has the potential to cut something. Make sure your broadheads are under control at all times.

Now with some better news!

Usually, with the teachers out of school for the summer months, we get a little rest. Not this summer! We have had a steady stream of calls and emails from schools all over the state wanting information about NASP and instructor training. We are working with several schools in the Kettle Falls area. Dave Eaton and the Blue Mt. Archers organized a meeting for us that brought together four Walla Walla area schools interested in getting started. One of those schools is already doing an independent archery class. The Friends of the NRA had a rep there and will be helping with the equipment financing through their grant process to help the shooting sports. Walla Walla HS has been selected to receive the Ray Wilson Memorial Grant and will be adding NASP to their classes this year. Holy Trinity (Des Moines) and Whitman MS (Seattle) have made commitments to add the program after their teachers attended the August instructor training. Our President has been working hard in the Spokane area and we've had some very positive discussions with the Reardon School District about adding archery to their classes.

We have been able to secure the field house at CWU (Ellensburg) for the NASP State Championship again this year. We will have two gyms set up to handle the 300 plus students that we expect to have in the competition this year. Please mark your calendars now for March 19, 2011. We will need a lot of help to ensure that we can keep everything moving for the kids and their fans. Please put us in your schedule and let Linda Parker or I know that you will be available to help out. See the flyer at page 6 - post it at your Club or Shop!

We're getting a very steady stream of request for instructor training from both the teachers and from the camp and recreation sector. Training dates and locations will be posted on the WSAA website calendar as soon as they are set. If you're interested in attending a training, watch the calendar and make sure Sherrie Crisp knows that you're interested in training.
